

June 2010 Newsletter

Beautywithin
Skincare Salon

Hi Ladies,

It was a toss-up to whether to concentrate on Father's Day or Football in this newsletter. The latter won, because it is probably a 'once in our lifetime' event for us here in South-Africa. We hope you have your 2010 vocabulary up to scratch & know who Zakumi is, what a Vuvuzela & Makarapa is, how to do the Diski Dance, & how to celebrate Football Fridays.

There will be over a billion people around the world watching us here in South Africa from 11th-11th so let's hope we can put our best foot forward for the kick off, & in our matches, & our hospitality. For those of you who are not into football, but want to appear to be up to speed with events, we'll tell you that the ball for the 2010 FIFA World Cup is named 'Jabulani'. If you are not fluent in isiZulu, we'll help you out & explain that this means 'bringing joy to everyone', which we sure hope will be the scenario facing us. Egoli, that is the 'Golden City' & not 'ee-goal-ee!' is represented in the name of the special ball for the final to be played here in Johannesburg. This ball for the final match to determine the soccer champions will have gold panels & is to be named 'Jo'bulani'.

Still on the subject of soccer balls, it appears that they are highly technological part of the tournament & are manufactured by Adidas with German precision. The surface is textured with grooves patented as GripnGroove, to improve the balls aerodynamics. Hopefully those aerodynamics will be mastered by Bafana Bafana's strikers, so that the SA trademark trumpets can be blasted in a cacophony of triumphant sound. What we are hoping is that all South Africans will score from 2010...especially with many an 'ee-goal-ee' for Bafana Bafana!

Here at then salon we want you all to score from Fathers' Day Specials. We want to be 'bringing joy to everyone', especially the Dads, who are so important to us all. Psychologists will tell you that a Fathers' love & attention is an important structural element in our self-esteem. His input is patented by God to give us the 'lift off' that we need to reach the goals in our lives. Dads, we salute you! The girls at Beautywithin will be giving FREE back massages to Dads with this months special. Book any Luxury Facial with a manicure or pedicure & Dad will get a FREE 45 minute back massage. If it's your nails that need attention, then book a full set of either Gel or Acrylic nails and get a FREE 30 minute back massage.

Just a reminder that Dr Ansua Steyn will be coming to Beautywithin Salon once a month to provide Botox & Juvederm Filler treatments. I, Cindy, tried it in May so that I would know what it entailed for my clients. I was very happy with the results, I feel it made a notable difference and I can personally recommend it. Our Mother/Daughter packages did very well, thank-you for your support.

Our nail technician, Margaret, will be leaving for maternity leave at the end of June. We wish her happy anticipation of the BIG event. We are in the process of interviewing a second Nail Technician who specialises in Gel nails. Since we did not have a newsletter in May, we need to mention that our employee of the month for May was our Receptionist, Vinishia Ganas. She has proved to be a fast learner, & readily became an essential part of the team. Her lovely attitude has endeared her to all of us, & we just love her. Thank-you Vinishia!

Just to show that you are not only score in the beauty stakes by being part of the Beautywithin family, but also in the general knowledge stakes, here are a few more whispers to help you along in the mania which is going to grip our country in the next few weeks. Zakumi is the morphed leopard with the green hair who is the official mascot for 2010. The official motto is "Zakumi's game is Fair Play". A makarapa is the modified miners helmet unique to SA soccer fans. The disk dance is quite complicated for mature minds, but the school children seem to have mastered it on Football Fridays where they learn the moves & feel the rhythm of African football. Enjoy the world cup...and by the way Italy are the defending champions!

We look forward to seeing you soon, and we promise not to disk dance, or blow a vuvuzela. In the salon there are no defending champions, as all our clients are winners in their own unique way. We look forward to pampering you in peace, to spoiling the Dads and celebrating their role in our families.

God bless and keep smiling till next time
Cindy and all the girls at Beautywithin Salon
